ABOUT ME

For 15 years, I worked in the metallurgical industry, taking on roles both in the operational area and in project estimation.

In the operational area, I gained solid experience in handling state-of-the-art CNC-controlled machinery, standing out for my precision, focus on quality, and ability to quickly adapt to new technologies and complex processes.

In the project estimation area, I specialized in evaluating costs, processes, logistics, and the personnel required for project execution. This experience allowed me to develop skills in analysis, planning, negotiation, and client relations, as well as the ability to manage multiple variables to optimize resources and timelines.

Since 2022, I have decided to redirect my career toward the IT field, driven by my interest in technology and programming. This transition is possible thanks to my tenacity, commitment, self-discipline, and self-taught learning. These key skills have enabled me to tackle significant challenges with enthusiasm and determination, always focused on growth and learning.
